

Appetizing offer with Aussie chef

By Bill Husted

The Denver Post

Article Last Updated: 05/08/2008 10:55:43 PM MDT

Curtis Stone is TV's latest cooking hunk and the Aussie is on his way to Colorado.

He's the host of TLC's "Take Home Chef," where he picks up women in high-end grocery stores, helps them shop, goes home and cooks the meal and serves it to her and her sig other. People Magazine named him one of the sexiest people alive. He's a regular on "Today." And if you still don't know who he is, he's on "Oprah" today in the Sandwich Showdown. He goes up against Tyler Florence, with Padma Lakshmi declaring the winner.

Next stop — BAC (Builders Appliance Center) at 1880 W. Oxford Ave. in Englewood. On June 20, Stone will spend the day there, starting with a VIP luncheon ($125), followed by a cooking demo ($75).

This is a deal — considering women have offered $10,000 to have him cook dinner in their homes — in his underwear.

A portion of the proceeds will go to Cancer League of Colorado. Call 303-641-7504.